

THINKING
BOX

A world that works for everyone

Exploring sortition

- Are our democracies working well?
 - Distorted media, Lobbyists, vested interests, factions, desire for power?
- What qualities of sortition would be good?
 - Representative random selection?
 - Wisdom of crowds over experts?
 - Diversity over ability?
 - Give people responsibility, they act responsibly?
- What concerns do you have?
- Possible transition methods?
 - Citizens assemblies, replace Lords, trials in companies?
- What might be even better?

Live survey on sortition

- After both discussions (small group and plenary)
- Type bit.ly/tbsort1 into your address bar (not search engine)
- Complete the survey

Chimamanda Ngozi Adichie: The danger of a single story

- Do you agree that having a single story/stereotype of a person
 - Robs people of dignity?
 - Implies that we are different and not similar?
- Are there people for whom you have a single story?
- How impressionable are we (generally) in the face of a story?
 - How easily 'sold' are we?
- How can we become less susceptible to stereotypes?
 - How do we spot them in ourselves?
 - How can we actively find out a fuller picture?