

Thinking Box for XR Programme 5

Session title: How important is play in a regenerative culture?

Blurb for the invitation:

In this session we will watch a powerful talk about the value of play in human lives – not just children. There is some science to look at and discuss and also aspects of play that help us learn and function. What conditions work best and how best can we incorporate play into our lives. As always a great chance to reflect and share tips.

In the second half we play some games!

Preparation

It isn't imperative to watch the videos before you host a session but it is recommended. It will help you introduce the topics more effectively and prepare you for the kind of responses likely in the discussions. You can also report briefly how you responded to the videos and this can help set an open tone for the session.

Facilitator tips

You do not have to have any experience to run a good Thinking Box session. The videos and the questions go a long way to engaging people and getting them talking. As a host you can help by being genuinely interested in your guests and what they think about the topics you present to them. The preparation above will help with this and a little introduction to each video is useful.

Small group discussions

- We only have one 'rule' in Thinking Box and that is that small groups should be no more than 3 people. The intro video gives some of the reasons for this but please trust that it does make a difference. It is best to make this clear in advance but if larger groups do form simply politely ask for them to split before the discussions begin.
- Always take part yourself in one of the small groups.
- Keep an eye on time and bring the group back together after 15-20 mins

Plenary discussion

- Facilitating the plenary discussion is by far the most exciting part of the role and the one where you will be most awake, alive and present. It can be exhilarating to be able to host a conversation with many people and you will also have a unique perspective on the views of different guests. If you are interested in the video content, thinking and answering social questions of importance, you will naturally be curious and enthusiastic about what others think. So look forward to finding out the range of views in your group.
- As host, try to simply ask questions and reflect comments made back to the group, this is not the session to add your own thoughts (although this is not forbidden – you are a member of the group too).
- Listen to the points being made and move the conversation onto another question if you feel it is time to.
- Try to hear from a range of people and avoid any guest from dominating.
- Keep an eye on time and conclude the session with the final short heart warmer video.

Timing

A full double session typically needs 2.5 hours, so just over an hour for each half plus time for breaks and general organising. Adjust timing to suit session and participant needs.
